

ABOUT MS

The National MS Society is a collective of passionate individuals who want to do something about MS now—to move together toward a world free of multiple sclerosis. MS stops people from moving. We exist to make sure it doesn't.

We help each person address the challenges of living with MS through our 50-state network of chapters. The Society helps people affected by MS by funding cutting-edge research, driving change through advocacy, facilitating professional education, and providing programs and services that help people with MS and their families move their lives forward.

Studies show that early and ongoing treatment with an FDA-approved therapy can reduce future disease activity and improve quality of life for many people with multiple sclerosis. Talk to your health care professional and contact the National MS Society at www.nationalMSSociety.org or 800-344-4867 to learn more about ways to help manage multiple sclerosis and about current research that may one day reveal a cure.

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society supports more MS research and serves more people with MS than any other national voluntary health organization in the world.

TELECONFERENCE SERIES

The Chapter Programs Department has planned a schedule of educational teleconferences for the upcoming year. The teleconference calls provide you with a wealth of information while you listen from the comfort of your own home!

This is an ideal way to learn about a variety of issues that may affect you and your loved ones. Participation in a call is a simple process -- you just have to register with the Chapter and you will be provided with a toll free number. Please know that you can register for as many of the calls as you are interested in and that other family/friends can listen in on the call with you. Early registration for the calls will guarantee that you receive reminders and updated information, as necessary.
